

PRIVACY POLICY

duBreton respects its guests and their right to privacy. The Privacy Policy, here below, describes:

- The personal information and information we may collect from our web customers;
- The purposes for which we collect it;
- The use we make of it;
- The circumstances in which we can pass on to third parties.

This policy also outlines the options available to you regarding the collection, use and disclosure of your personal information.

duBreton undertakes not to collect, use or disclose personal information otherwise than in accordance with this policy.

When you visit the website <https://www.dubreton.com>, you agree to the terms and conditions of this policy. In the event of a change to our policy, we will notify you by posting an update on our website. If you continue to use the website after posting an update of our policy, you indicate your acceptance of the changes and are thus bound by these changes. It is your responsibility to regularly review this policy and the changes that will be made to it.

PROTECTION OF INFORMATION

What type of information does duBreton collect?

If you save personal information on our website (by creating a user account or choosing a password, performing a product search, placing an order, providing information in your account) or if you we transmit personal information via any form of electronic communication (communication via Facebook, telephone, participating in a contest, completing a survey form or promotion), we can obtain and save this information.

duBreton's website is for adult use only. duBreton does not collect any personal information from children aged 13 and under. Guests aged 13 and under should not use the duBreton's website or provide personal information to duBreton.

Does duBreton collect information about me?

duBreton may use your personal information for:

- Process your orders and answer your questions;
- Send you the ordered products, send them to friends, family members or colleagues;
- Stay in touch with you and provide you with a personalized service;
- Contact you to send you advertising material or additional information about our products;
- Conduct market research and performance research to evaluate our customer service, measure our performance and enhance our customer experience and improve our products. You can always choose to receive or not our advertising material.

Does duBreton share information about me with third parties?

When you visit the website <https://www.dubreton.com>, whether you purchase products online, participate in a contest, survey, or promotion, we may use information about you to help you, transmit advertising material and additional information about our products.

At no time do we sell or rent your personal information to third parties as prescribed by law.

We may disclose your personal information to third parties outside our group for processing purposes pursuant to agreements prohibiting such third parties from using or disclosing personal information other than for the purpose of processing and imposing mechanisms security measures adapted to the sensitivity of the information.

We reserve the right to disclose your personal information in the cases required by law, as part of court proceedings, in response to a request from law enforcement authorities and, if necessary, to protect personal information, property, interests, and rights of duBreton.

How can I exercise my choices regarding the receipt of advertising information?

We invite you to contact us to tell us your choices or if you no longer wish to receive advertising material from us.

What is a cookie and how are cookies used on the duBreton website?

Cookies are small data files that are transmitted to your computer's hard drive through a website. They record your preferences so that your subsequent visits to the website are more efficient. Cookies can store a variety of information, including the number of times you visit a website, the history of your purchases, your registration information, and the number of your visits to a page or other element of the website. The use of cookies is common practice in most major websites to improve customer service. Most browsers are designed to accept cookies but can easily be modified to block them; Your browser's help files contain information about the blocking of cookies, the detection of cookies that are transmitted to you and their deactivation. However, it is important for you to know that without cookies, you will not have access to some of the features of a website and will not be able to take full advantage of them.

How can I access or modify my personal information, withdraw my consent, or make a request for information or a complaint regarding this Privacy Policy or duBreton's practices?

duBreton ensures personal information it collects is as accurate, complete and up to date as necessary for the purposes for which it is used. You are entitled to request access to the personal information we have collected about you and to correct it if necessary. You may send any such request or any question or complaint regarding this policy or duBreton's privacy practices in writing to our Privacy Officer by email to the marketing@dubreton.com

How long is personal information kept?

We will only keep your personal information as long as it is reasonably necessary to do so for the purposes stated in this policy or as required by law.

How is personal information protected?

We have taken appropriate measures to maintain the confidentiality of personal information and protect it against loss or theft, as well as unauthorized access, disclosure, copying, use or modification, considering, in particular, their sensitivity and the purposes for which they are used. In addition, we require that each employee, agent, or representative of duBreton respect this policy.